Bio

Since joining Huie in 1997, Phil Collins has dedicated his practice to defending medical providers of all disciplines in medical negligence cases. His individualistic, highly organized and fiercely competitive approach has served his clients well over his almost thirty-year legal career.

Phil has served as an Adjunct Professor at the Birmingham School of Law and has lectured on a wide range of topics. In 2021, Phil was a recipient of the Birmingham Business Journal's Best of the Bar award, and he has been recognized by Best Lawyers in the Litigation Health Care, Litigation Insurance, and Medical Malpractice legal practice areas.

In his free time, Phil enjoys golfing and running. Phil also serves on the Board of Directors of HemEdits, LLC, a start-up biogenetic company that is working to develop a cure for sickle cell disease. His wife Catherine and he have three children and seven grandchildren.

Phil earned his BS from Auburn University and his JD from The University of Alabama School of Law.
